

Stations

Stations are a fun and interactive way to showcase your menu items. At SoHo Catering, there are two different ways we approach stations. One way is you can add a station or two to your buffet dinner to give it some added flair and customization. Or, another way is to present your entire meal "station-style." Having your entire dinner presented as stations will mean that your dinner time may take longer, since your guests are eating small plates of food from each station, rather than one large meal for dinner. It's fun to have themed stations as well, and we have included some ideas for those, also.

Stations are the most customizable way to express yourselves with your cuisine, so please reach out to discuss ways to personalize and make your menu your own!

Pricing can fluctuate depending on the overall menu. Please inquire to get a price quote.
